PART III

ORGANIZATION OF THE 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION (AIRMOBILE)

The following discussion of the organization of the AIRMOBILE Division provides some background for a meaningful comparison with other United States Army Divisions.

The base of the Airmobile Division is similar to that of a standard ROAD Division, with the addition of an Aviation Group. The structure of the Division originally envisioned five Infantry and three Airborne Battalions as maneuver elements. Based on Vietnam experience the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) requested the assignment of an additional infantry battalion.

Each battalion is organized for total mobility as the administrative, mess, and logistics have been removed from company responsibility and placed at battalion or brigade level. The rifle company has only two vehicles—two mechanical mules. The Battalion Headquarters are also light with $\frac{1}{4}$ and $\frac{3}{4}$ ton trucks.

More specifically, each Brigade has three battalions assigned to it for these administrative purposes. The 1st Brigade supports the 1/8 Cav, 2/8 Cav, and 1/12 Cav. The 2d Brigade hosts the 1/5 Cav, 2/5 Cav, and 2/12 Cav. The 3d Brigade is responsible for the 1/7 Cav, 2/7 Cav, and 5/7 Cav. Once committed to a tactical situation, however, a Brigade Commander may find himself with two to five battalions, depending on the situation.

Also organic is the 1st Squadron 9th Cavalry, the US Army's only Air Cavalry Squadron. Its three Air Cavalry troops contain scout teams (OH-13's) and gunships (UH1Bs) to find and fix the enemy. Each Air Cavalry troop also has an infantry platoon, called a Blue Team, to engage with and finish the small enemy units. Moreover, the one ground troop, in addition to the Air Cavalry troops, provides greater Infantry fighting depth. Its $\frac{1}{4}$ and $\frac{3}{4}$ ton vehicles are substituted for the heavier track vehicles found in Cavalry units in other Divisions. Although a surveillance and maneuver element, the 1/9 Cavalry is primarily air oriented and is not usually placed entirely under the control of a Brigade; commonly, it is employed separately, or one of its air troops is attached to one of the Brigades. The Cavalry Squadron is one of the Division's principal intelligence gathering agencies. It has been employed in just about every type of offensive operation, to include flank security. It has also operated separately in an independent AO. Authorized a total of 88 aircraft, the Squadron had 30 OH-13's, 38 UH1B's, and 20 UH1D's.

The Division Artillery has three 105mm Direct Support Howitzer Battalions: the 2/19 Arty, the 1/21 Arty, and the 1/77 Arty. Each is equipped with the lightweight M 102, 105mm howitzer, and is unique in that there are no prime movers assigned for howitzers. Rather, they depend on the CH-47 Chinook of the 11th Aviation Group. There are 3/4 ton ammunition trucks assigned to each battalion to provide ground mobility, if necessary. Where other Divisions have a medium Artillery battalion, the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) Artillery has an aerial rocket Artillery Battalion (2/20th ARA), the only one of its kind in the world. Thirty-six of its 39 UH1B's are armed with a pair of 24 tube 2.75" rocket launchers. The remaining three are command and control ships. These aerial rockets are an extension of the arm of tube Artillery and offer considerable responsiveness by being able to move rapidly beyond the normal range of the 105mm tubes to place direct fire on any type of target. In addition to 2.75" rockets, this ARA battalion has the capability of firing SS-11 missiles for effective penetration against bunkers and fortified shelters. The Division Artillery also sports the only Artillery battery in the world (E Battery 82nd Field Artillery) without organic artillery weapons — this battery provides aerial reconnaissance, aerial adjustment of Artillery fires, and command liaison.

The bulk of the Division's aircraft are found with the 11th Aviation Group, consisting of two assault helicopter battalions (AHB) and one assault support helicopter battalion (ASHB). The two AHB (227th and 229th) team up with maneuver Infantry units for air assault operations. Each of these battalions has a weapons company of 12 armed UH1B's to accompany the air columns and to provide suppressive ground fire on the LZ just before troop deployment. Frequently the lift companies are tasked to assault one Infantry battalion and turn around for another. Also, each has three lift companies with 20 UH1D's, each ship designed to lift a squad.

The heavy lift battalion, the ASHB, has all 48 of the Division's CH47 Chinooks, divided 16 per company. These twin-rotored helicoptere are prime movers for the tubes and ammunition of the 105mm howitzer battalions. Additionally, and also of high importance, is the Chinook's commitment in handling the lion's share of logistical resupply and some troop movement. The 11th General Support Aviation Company provides command and liaison choppers for the Division Headquarters and for all those units without organic aircraft (Support Command, Signal Battalion, Engineer Battalion, MP Company, and Pathfinder Company.) The Aerial Surveillance and Target Acquisition Platoon (ASTA) platoon of the GS Aviation Company has three SLAR (side-looking radar) and three IR (infrared) Mohawks (OV-1) providing six additional prime intelligence sources.

The Support Command provides administrative, maintenance, and medical support to the Division and attached units. Its importance cannot be overstated, for without its supply and maintenance of equipment the Division could not operate. It is organized in much the same manner as the support command in the ROAD Division, with the addition of a large aircraft maintenance section. The ground maintenance section is naturally smaller than in the standard Division.

The 8th Engineer Battalion has an HHC and three line companies, each of which is similar to the standard airborne Engineer company. All the heavier equipment is maintained in the HHC and used to reinforce the line companies when necessary. Unique to this battalion is the airmobility of all of its heavier equipment; even the lightweight sectionalized bulldozer has been airlifted to build airstrips in some of the roughest terrain in the world.

The 13th Signal Battalion provides the Division's internal and long range communication capability. One of its two companies provides commo for Division Headquarters, while the other provides the link between Headquarters and the major commands.

There are certain attached units that add greatly to the Division's Airmobility. The 478th Aviation Company (heavy helicopter) provides invaluable assistance with its four flying crane helicopters—the only flying cranes in Vietnam. These carry the medical pod (a mobile operating room) right into the field of battle. Its effect in diminishing the number of deaths from battle wounds has been tremendous. The cranes are also able to transport the heavy 155mm howitzer Artillery pieces to otherwise inaccessible terrain. This capability has revolutionized the placement of Artillery, and the fire support which can be brought to bear.

This, then, is the organization of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile)—lean, light, and possessing great striking power. The organization is new and the concept is new, but the Cavalry trooper has remained unchanged; he is still the rugged, determined, professionally qualified soldier who has always served with the 1st Cavalry Division, a horse trooper in the Indian days, a sky trooper today. His dedicated service and fighting spirit are in the best traditions of the old Cavalry. That is why the 1st Cav remains THE FIRST TEAM, in reputation and in fact.

In Memoriam

The following pages list the names of the men of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) who were killed in action in Vietnam, from September 1965 to February 1967.

Let us never forget their sacrifice; let us rather honor their memory by total and unstinted support of their successors in Vietnam serving in THE FIRST TEAM.

CITATIONS

Thousands of men of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) distinguished themselves by outstanding heroism in battle.

The following partial list of the principal awards is representative of the much larger total of citations awarded for gallantry in action in Vietnam.

Additional awards of the Distinguished Service Cross, Distinguished Service Medal, and Silver Star, for the period of this report, are now pending.

The names of the men who won Bronze Star Medals, Air Medals, and Purple Hearts, are far too numerous to publish here.

In very many instances deeds deserving of awards could not be recognized because of circumstances which prevented preparation of recommendations.

Awards for outstanding gallantry in action have been made to the following named men:

The 1st Cavalry Division Association

Founded in 1944 in the Admiralty Islands, the Association was incorporated in the District of Columbia in 1949 as a non-profit, fraternal Veteran's organization, dedicated to preservation of friendships formed in battle, to the honor of comrades killed in the war, and to the perpetuation of the traditions and esprit of THE FIRST TEAM.

The Association underwrites annual reunions, publishes and distributes SABER NEWS quarterly to all Life Members without cost, encourages formation of regional and local Chapters and their meetings, publishes at irregular intervals Directories listing Life Members and current addresses, and is now planning the incorporation of this Report with past and future operations into a comprehensive History.

A Scholarship Fund is now being developed to aid dependents of men killed or disabled in action while serving with the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) in Vietnam.

The Association maintains a Trust Fund (current value in excess of $65,000) which provides income for publication of the paper.

Metal miniatures, decals, and insignia cards and decals displaying the big bright patch are distributed in an effort to acquaint all Americans with the achievements and history of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile).

Every man who served honorably in the 1st Cavalry Division or in the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) at any time is eligible for membership, which costs $10.00 (a one-time membership fee with no subsequent dues) and provides life time subscription to SABER NEWS, copy of the history, copy of the directory, and copy of any other material published, plus decals, insignia cards, and pins.

Membership in the Association enables members to keep in touch with comrades who shared the hardships and dangers, and the elan and successes, in serving with THE FIRST TEAM.
